

ROCKLAND SCHOOL DISTRICT

If You Are Seeking Information On the Subject, Here It Is In Full

With Rockland's special election on School District close at hand, many persons are seeking information concerning the act passed by the State Legislature at the last session. Here is the first installment.

Sec. 1. Rockland School District. Subject to the provisions of section 7 hereof, the inhabitants and territory within the city of Rockland are hereby created a body politic and corporate under the name of Rockland School District, for the purpose of acquiring property within said city for school purposes, erecting, enlarging, repairing, equipping and maintaining on said property, elementary and high schools, with right to lease or let said property to said city and to receive, accept and hold gifts, grants or devises of property real, personal or mixed to be used for school and related athletic and recreational purposes for the benefit of the inhabitants of said city.

Sec. 2. Trustees, powers and duties; limitations. All the affairs of said district, except election of teachers who shall serve in the said schools and the fixing of their salaries, the course of study, the terms of school and all other matters pertaining to the education of pupils which matters shall be controlled, as provided by law, by the school board of the city of Rockland shall be managed by a board of 5 trustees who shall be bona fide residents of the city of Rockland, and who shall be elected as hereinafter provided. The board of trustees, acting for said district, shall have and exercise all the power and authorities necessary to carry out the purposes of this act and the powers and authorities granted herein.

Sec. 3. Trustees; how elected; organization of board; election of officers; tenure of office; vacancies; compensation. The trustees so to be elected shall be elected by a plurality of the legal voters of said district voting at any election provided for in section 7. All nominations of candidates so to be voted for shall be made by nomination papers signed in aggregate for each candidate by no less than 125 nor more than 150 qualified voters resident in said district. Each voter signing a nomination paper shall make his signature in person, and each voter may subscribe to as many nominations as there are trustees to be elected in said district and no more. Such nomination papers, before being filed, shall be submitted to the city clerk of Rockland, who shall forthwith certify thereon what number of the signatures are names of qualified voters resident in said district; one of the signers to each separate paper shall swear to the truth thereof, and the certificate of such oath shall be annexed to or made upon the nomination papers. Such nomination papers shall be filed with the city clerk of said city of Rockland at least 14 days, exclusive of Sundays, previous to the day of such election. With such nomination papers shall also be filed the consent in writing of the person or persons nominated. All nomination papers, being filed and being in apparent conformity with the foregoing provisions, shall be deemed to be valid; and if not in apparent conformity they may be seasonably amended under oath.

In case any candidate who has been duly nominated under the provisions hereof shall die before the day of election, or shall withdraw in writing or shall remove his place of residence from said district, the vacancy may be supplied in the manner herein provided for such nominations. The name so supplied for vacancy shall, if the ballots have not been printed, be placed on the ballots instead of the original nomination; or if the ballots have been printed, new ballots containing the new nomination shall, if practicable, be furnished, or slips containing the new nomination shall be printed under the direction of said city clerk which shall be pasted upon said ballots and over the name of the candidate whose nomination has been vacated as aforesaid, and thereafter shall become part of said ballots as if originally printed thereon.

The ballot in said district shall contain the names of all candidates so nominated in said district alphabetically arranged, printed in one column under the heading, "For Trustees of the Rockland School District." Above such heading shall be printed "Vote for Five." Make a cross to the right of each name voted for." As many blank spaces shall be left after the names of the candidates as there are trustees to be elected, in which the voters may by writing insert the name of any person or persons for whom he desires to vote. In preparing his ballot the voter shall mark a cross

Brown Heavily Fined

But Judge Dwinall Took Into Account His Lack Of Guilt

The complexity and confusion of Maine lobster laws was discussed at length in Municipal Court Wednesday as Judge Zelma Dwinall questioned wardens and defendant alike in a case in which a licensed lobster truckman was charged with having 61 short lobsters in his possession.

Carleton Brown of Boothbay Harbor, licensed by the State to transport lobsters by truck, was arrested by Coastal Warden Merle Dobbin as he delivered a load of lobsters from Pennaquid to the plant of Maine Coast Seafoods in Rockport recently. Examination of the load checked out the 61 shorts in the load.

Dwinall observed that Brown had merely acted as a carrier and had not been involved in the purchase or sale of the lobsters but by State law was as guilty as the one who caught and sold them. He pointed out that in such cases the warden's discretion might be the controlling factor and not the exact letter of the law; which was written to aid prosecution in cases where there was obvious intent to violate.

He fined Brown a total of $305, or $5 per short lobster in his possession, but immediately suspended the fine, due to the unusual angles of the case.

Sixth Summer Fair

In South Thomaston, Week From Today, Offers Many Attractions

The Community Service Club of South Thomaston will hold its sixth Summer fair next Friday in the Grange hall. As in the past, at the close of the sale, a baked bean supper will be served, with salads and other goodies.

Mrs. Marian Coby will present "The Wedding of the Painted Doll" with the town's juveniles in the cast. The Rockland Band will play during intermission and other musical numbers will be presented. Mrs. Clara Bragg, president of the club, and her assistants, have been busy engaged in making braided rugs, patchwork quilts, aprons, dolls, stuffed animals and crocheted articles for a year, and they have a large assortment on hand.

The club was formed in the early days of the war by Mrs. Bernice Sleeper and six other women who felt they could do "something" to raise money for local improvements and the war effort. The results have been most gratifying, as the Red Cross, U.S.O., Infantile Paralysis Fund and other drives have received contributions each year. Local benefits have also resulted, including a new roof for the Grange hall, painting of the church, and assistance in the erection of a war memorial.

At the annual meeting in April it was reported that in the first four years the club had disbursed $2500. Many more local improvements are planned.

Again Struck Twelve

Aftermath of That Delightful Revue, "Georges River Showboat"

With a capacity crowd voicing its delighted approval at every turn "The Georges River Showboat" again scored a smash hit when it presented its final showing at Community Building Tuesday night. At the start of the performance Director George W. J. Carr asked the audience not to sit on their hands. His request was obeyed with vigor.

If an individual star can be picked from such an array of talent the choice of many on Tuesday night was the beautiful and talented M. Helen Yee, who as glamor girl of the Showboat captivated the audience in her duet with the Singing Woodsman hero, Howard Crockett. Mrs. Yee was clad in a handsome gown worn by her own ancestors in the 1870s, the period of the Showboat. Warren felt fortunate indeed to have as a Summer resident so talented an artist to handle the lead.

The trained voice of Mrs. Marion Lermont shone to great advantage in the large spaces of Community Building, cared by many singers and speakers. A comedy hit was again scored by Mrs. Marion McCloskey, always a prime favorite.

The Singing Woodsman with such fine voices as those of Chester Wyllie, William Podkova, Lee Walker and Roger Teague together with the beautifully costumed Showboat Chorus showed by their excellent performances the results of the tireless training and endless hours of care given by Mrs. Nettie Vinal who coached all soloists and choruses.

Mrs. Carrie Wyllie received an ovation for her fine performance as the kittenish Mrs. Crockett, though hampered by a severe attack of laryngitis. Vivian Vinal and Elmi Rutta gave charming characterizations of her much sought after daughters. In the same sequence Marie French and Flora McKellar gave fine interpretations of the two gossips of the seventies. Mrs. French's gown created a sensation for it was a genuine Godey.

Raychel Emerson Durant, famed concert soloist and Director Carr presented a delightful duet as Chloe brought her message to the Captain. It was the first time local audiences have heard Mr. Carr's fine voice. Mrs. Grace Lawrence Simmons as Lydia Pinkham brought in another old Warren family.

The accord of William Podkova supported the Gypsy Chorus songs and his own fine voice. The work of Miss Verna N. Robinson as accompanist was flawless. No story of the performances could be complete without credit to the artistry of Joseph Emery in making up the cast. Actually one woman, studying the Woodsman remarked, "I didn't realize there were so many bearded men in Warren."

Stuart C. Burgess, president of the Rockland Kiwanis Club, sponsors of the Rockland Children's Playground, beneficiary of the play, spoke in graceful words the appreciation of his club to players, public and those who assisted in any way.

Seacoast Mission

Year's Receipts Highest Ever But So Were the Expenses

Henry Rawle of Northeast Harbor, Thomas Searls, Jr., of Southwest Harbor, and Richard O. Allen of Somesville, were unanimously elected members of the board of directors of the Maine Seacoast Missionary Society at the annual meeting.

The directors are Mrs. Morris Hawkes, Mrs. Lea McQ. Laquer, William J. Schieffelin, W. Barton Eddison, Mrs. Edward Browning, Joseph C. Smith, Miss Mary Wheelwright, and Dr. Julius S. Bixler.

Dr. Schieffelin, reporting as chairman of the boat committee, said that the Sunbeam III, in its seven years of service, has cruised the equivalent of twice around the world but that repairs and the efficiency of her crew had maintained her in top running condition. It is planned, he added, to install a new generator this autumn.

Thomas Searls, treasurer of the mission since its founding, showed that receipts for the past year were the largest in the mission's history, but that expenses were also high. Reports were also given by Rev. Thomas Hemming, pastor on Swan's Island, Miss Ann Laas Calley, E. N. Mrs. Gladys Muir, teacher and minister at Frenchboro, outer Long Island, and Miss Edith Drury.

Rev. Neal D. Bousfield, mission superintendent, who is soon to leave on a trip to visit the Grenfell Mission in Labrador, introduced the staff and the volunteers serving in its parish this Summer.

Who Has A Copy?

Dr. Hahn Would Like To Have Centennial Edition Published In 1876

Dr. W. H. Hahn of Friendship wonders if anybody has a copy of the centennial number of the Rockland Gazette which was printed July 4, 1876, commemorating the Declaration of Independence, and which he would be willing to sell. It was announced by Vose and Porter, publishers, that the edition would include:

"Rockland Fifty Years Ago," a detailed account of "The Shore Village in 1826," describing the appearance of the village, its roads, fields, buildings, kilns, wharves, etc., as they then existed. "Towns on Penobscot Bay Fifty Years Ago," by the venerable Rev. W. A. Drew, of Augusta, being a chapter of personal recollections of Belfast, Duck Trap, Camden, Rockland and Thomaston in those days.

A Glance at Knox County, or 100 Years Ago—An interesting historical sketch by Miss Emily Eaton, the daughter and able assistant of the late venerable local historian, Cyrus Eaton, A. M.

An account of all the past celebrations of the Fourth of July, in Rockland.

Original communications relating to "old times" in Thomaston, South Thomaston, Camden, Vinalhaven, etc., etc.

Walter Clyde Groves Made Vice President of Pennsylvania Railroad

Walter Clyde Groves of Monongahela, Penn., (formerly of Camden) who received his B. S. degree from University of Maine in 1913, has recently been promoted to vice president of the Denora Southern Railroad in Pennsylvania.

The news is very gratifying to Knox County friends who are watching his career with interest. He is a nephew of the late W. R. Walter of North Waldoboro.

Salvation Appeal

The Army Anxious To Hear From Its Vinalhaven Friends

Many of the old friends of The Salvation Army have not as yet responded to its appeal for funds and many new friends are only now beginning to make known their esteem for this unique humanitarian organization, it is believed by Herman W. Crockett, Chairman of this annual maintenance appeal in Vinalhaven for The Salvation Army.

The silent, efficient forces of The Salvation Army conduct their work of mercy and rehabilitation with a minimum of red tape and fanfare. Their aid to unfortunate and underprivileged people is rendered without regard for considerations of race, color or creed. The scope of their work can be partially realized by a scrutiny of the following activities: Family Welfare Service, Homes and Hospitals for unwed mothers, Young Women's Residences, Men's Social Service Centers, Boys' Club and Youth Centers, Missing Persons' Bureau, Prisoners and Police Court Work, Leagues of Mercy, Home Leagues and Fresh-Air Camps.

Since there will be no house to house canvassing for the present, Mr. Crockett urged that all hand or mail their contributions to the Treasurer, Leon W. Sanborn, Manager Knox County Trust Co. Make checks payable to The Salvation Army.

The estimated daily population of Rockfeller Center is 152,132, and is surpassed by the population of only 55 cities in the United States.

KIWANIS CLUB APPRECIATES

The Kiwanis Club wish to extend to George Carr, the Warren Players and each and every one who have in so many ways made for the success of this production. It is gratifying to know that they and the public evidence their approval of the Kiwanis project, "The Children's Playground."

Warren Town Hall

Carr Had Promised Repairs At No Cost To Town; Tells Why He Resigned

Several weeks ago George W. J. Carr of Warren appeared before the selectmen of Warren and asked permission to have the Town Hall repaired, painted, and put into first class sanitary condition, at no cost to the Town of Warren. This permission was gladly granted, but Mr. Carr resigned the position as superintendent of the building, after being informed that other organizations and social groups had rights to the building granted them by the citizens of Warren at various town meetings, and of which very few citizens of the town knew anything about.

For years there has been no system of rentals and repairs. No firemen on duty at dances, etc. The building is in a deplorable condition. In fact the building is being rented at a lower rate than it was in the year 1871 when labor was $150 a day.

Mr. Carr had secured an estimate from a contractor for $3000; this to make the building safe and with suitable fire-exits. This does not apply to the lower floor of the building which is maintained by the Warren Women's Club. Their portion of the building is in first class condition and with the aid of the Warren Players a new fire-proof stage has been enlarged and suitable fire-exits and doors added.

Interested in the youth of the town, and the advancement of their social life and activity, the Town Hall has been a pet idea of Carr's as a suitable place for the youth to meet at stated times. Mr. Carr for a number of years has been the citizen who offers the $50 prize money to the High School students each year.

This famous old hall has been the setting for many brilliant affairs, and no doubt furnished portions of the data for the new musical comedy just written and produced by Mr. Carr, "The Georges River Show Boat," which finds its settings so brilliantly costumed with gowns that once swept the old dance floor and down the hall stairs to waiting carriage and impatient swains.

THE BLACK CAT

By The Roving Reporter

With one Main street clock 10 minutes fast and another 10 minutes slow there's a good chance of missing the bus.

Camden seldom misses a good thing. And that's why it is going to see "The Georges River Showboat."

A Rockland business man whose last name begins with the third letter of the alphabet, bought a nice little boat not long ago and stored it in his garage pending its introduction to the wild sea waves. Unwisely he left the garage unlocked, and a waggish friend placed a placard on the craft which offered it for sale at $2250; apply at So and So's store. As the craft is worth nearer $200, the owner was so besieged with applications that it was a long time before he could remove the sign.

Dave Pollock, a business man at The 'Keag, is a close observer of wild life, and it taught him that seagulls, while rapacious as to almost any other article of food, delectable snot. On the other hand crows adore it. Dave threw a chunk of snot overboard one day. A gull eyed it carefully, dove overboard to retrieve it, and on reaching the surface deposited the morsel in front of a crow, which promptly despatched it. Inter-racial courtesy.

It would be interesting to learn if there is anyone in the State who has a more remarkable cat than "Buster," the family pet of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Beal which tips the scales at 16 pounds and is 18 years old. He is a yellow and white coon. From the time Buster was six years old he has been on a lease and never allowed to prowl the countryside and is unusually well behaved. He is put on his leash and given his freedom of the grounds about his home where he is perfectly happy. He has all his teeth and his sight is keen. Buster has a splendid appetite.—Bath Times.

Court officials and court attendants in Knox County will learn with regret that Edward T. Richardson is retiring as court reporter after more than 35 years' service. The versatile stenographer always receives a cordial welcome when he comes to Rockland. Edfield's remarkable vocabulary has always been a source of wonder and admiration.

Guy Stockbridge of Union was in the city yesterday with some handsome blueberries, picked by hand, for the local markets. He expects to harvest five or six tons, and will soon have the rakes busy. Inclement weather has set him behind on haying, however.

The famous Maiden's Cliff Cross is to be dedicated by the Camden Hills Theatre group, as an expression of the town's appreciation. Contributions are being accepted.

There are some persons who appreciate. For instance "Mrs. M. E. C." writes: "I hope everyone who attended the 'Show Boat' at the Community Building appreciated, as I did, the fan found in each seat so thoughtfully contributed by our taxi driver George Wood."

One year ago, North Haven began its centennial celebration. Axel and Sulo Gronroos launched the dragger Flo for Charles Carver and Walter Ross.—The Rockland Police Department adopted the platoon system.—Deaths: Rockland, Eulalia Clough, 70; Portland, Ore., Melvin F. Hare, native of South Thomaston, 84; Camden, Charles Frank Berry of Warren, 71.

ALL FOR THE BEST
Things mostly happen for the best. However hard it seems today. When some fond plan has gone astray Or what you've wished for most is lost. An' you sit countin' up the cost With eyes half-blind by tears o' grief. While doubt is chokin' out belief, You'll find when all is understood That what seemed bad was really good. —Edgar A. Guest.

Book Review

E. & F.

"The World Grows Round My Door." The story of the Kampong, A Home on the Edge of the Tropics. Author, David Fairchild. Author of "The World Was My Garden." Published by Scribner, New York.

His experiences with nature and growing plants and trees amaze the general run of persons who dabble with horticulture. In early life he set out to scour the world for new fruits, flowers and foods, which could be grown in his own country, and he is still working at this bent.

You, after reading this book, will awaken to the delights of nature and the wonders of nature.

Those who have visited the marvelous home of David Fairchild can somewhat picture in their minds the rich charm of his work and experiences. Florida is fortunate to have a man of his high, fascinating attainments; and his life offers unusual skill and experiences in the botanical field. He is an example for others to follow. David Fairchild has written much for those who are interested; this book is a delight in its decisive quality and character.

One could almost say it is simply written of facts dramatic and otherwise. When wild storms and cold weather put out the life of precious plants, he had nourished with care he started again and succeeded.

An unusual book of rare distinction, with many illustrations which glorify the pages.

Charles Scribner's Sons of New York have done a great favor to the world in printing this delightful book. —Kathleen S. Fuller.

[EDITORIAL]

NOW IT'S AUGUSTA'S TURN

Congratulations to Augusta which today begins the celebration of its sesquicentennial and congratulations to the Kennebec Journal which features the occasion with a magnificent edition in six large sections. The Capital City has produced some remarkable men, especially statesmen, and headed by "The Plumed Knight of Maine," Hon. James G. Elaine, who, in 1884 came within a few hundred votes of carrying New York State and becoming the President of this nation. But the shire town of "Imperial Kennebec" has been famous for other reasons than its distinguished statesmen, and they are told, with fitting illustrations, in the myriad pages of the Journal's special edition.

BRICKER BOWS OUT

Senator Bricker's endorsement of his colleague, Robert A. Taft of Ohio has been discounted for many months, a prediction to that effect having been fully accepted. This of course, will give Senator Taft, the entire delegation, but how widespread its effect will be time alone will tell. Ten months in advance of the Republican National Convention it looks very much like a race between Dewey and Taft with the former having a considerable lead at the outset. A deadlock might lead to surprising results, as we have noticed several times in the past.

MAINE CENTRAL REVENUES

Although the Maine Central's passenger revenue for the month of June showed a decrease of 3.08 percent, the net income was $91,099. This compares with a deficit of $45,348 reported by the road in June, 1946. Increased freight revenue to the extent of 37.35 percent and increased mail revenue of 7.27 percent were responsible for the good showing this year. Comparing the first half of this year with the same period of last year, the statement shows operating revenues increased 13.52 percent. Freight revenue shows an increase of 17.17 percent and mail revenue 9.85 percent. Passenger revenue showed a decrease of 14.79 percent.

A LIQUOR FALLACY

When the idea that alcoholism is a disease and the alcoholic a sick man was protested by the recent National WCTU convention, the women did something that was needed. The sickness explanation is being energetically promoted in an attempt to remove the stigma from inebriety. But it is going too far to credit acute or chronic excessive drinking entirely to sickness and to put the alcoholic in the same class as all who suffer from disease.

Obviously, there is a very important distinction, as Dr. Haven Emerson, one of the leading authorities, points out: "Alcoholism is an acquired habit resulting from persistent repetition of the will of choosing to drink alcoholic beverages. Acute and chronic alcoholism are both forms of intoxication knowingly acquired. The sickness which develops from habitual drinking is originally self-imposed and could have been avoided."

Yet the enthusiastic sponsors of the sickness supposition tell the public that there are an estimated 3,000,000 chronic, excessive drinkers or alcoholics in the country, and that most of them don't know what their trouble is. They don't know that they are sick, runs the argument, and that they have a disease which can be arrested. Also, the nebratide does not pursue pleasure in his drinking, but actually feels pain.

This argument ignores something at the very heart of the drink problem. Craving for liquor is a depraved appetite. The drinker's desire to be free is an essential to cure by any method. The sickness theory, incidentally, gives the self-deceived alcoholic a too-handy excuse for his drinking.

The host of alcoholics need help, and some progress is being made. But excessive drinking must be dealt with as a problem in morality as well as pathology. —Christian Science Monitor

Referendum Rockland School District QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

What does this Bill provide?

A means for the City of Rockland to provide money to build badly needed school facilities without increasing its operating debts.

How will it be paid?

The debt will be paid off, over a period of twenty years, by the City from current income, meaning taxes.

Will this increase taxes in Rockland?

Yes, to some extent. If, however, money was not provided by this means, the City would still face an immediate and substantial increase in costs of maintenance and repair of present buildings, long neglected and subsequently higher taxes.

What are the needs for such a School District?

Rockland's school buildings are old and presently inadequate. Census figures reveal an increasing burden of grammar school pupils for our school facilities in the next five years. The problem is here now! Under this Bill, Rockland can act more quickly than would be possible under the present city financing.

Is this procedure economically sound?

The best answer seems to be, that over a dozen towns and cities of the State of Maine are taking similar action at this time, with the belief that it is the only answer to a very pressing problem. Any business would consider this a necessary capital investment to be paid for out of future profits (taxes) over a period of years.

Who will manage this School District?

A group of five trustees, duly elected by and from the citizens of Rockland.

What will happen at the end of twenty years?

The City of Rockland will own a completely paid for modern school building and will have had the use of it during those twenty years.

Can the School District receive contributions?

Yes, any private, state or federal funds may be accepted by the District to help lighten the financial burden.

Central Maine	1	16	.058

As the official softball schedule ends Sunday, please watch the new softball sign board at Schofield-White Park for the current games being played. This, along with the new seats and a welcome addition to the field are greatly appreciated by the spectators.

Sunday spectators saw Rackliff & Witham take two close games from Central Maine. Monday night Al's Clippers opened up in the fourth inning to take the game from G.S.P. 40 Pathoms by a score of 18 to 11. Perry's tightened their lead by beating G.S.P. Shipyard 6 to 3 on Tuesday. It might have been a different game if Perry's didn't come through with that hot double play from short to first in the seventh. "Shorty" Horwick won another one for Paul's by beating Camden 7 to 3 Wednesday.

Schedule—Tonight, Shipyard vs. Rackliff & Witham (Shipyard 2 games). Sunday, big double header, Al's Clippers vs. Perry's Market (Perry's).

Postponed games to be played during the week of Aug. 1 through to Aug. 9.

Friday, Aug. 1—Al's Clippers vs. Camden at Camden; Shipyard vs. Rackliff & Witham, at Schofield-White Park.

Monday, Aug. 4—Shipyard vs. Camden, at Camden; Paul's vs. Forty Pathoms at Schofield-White Park; Rackliff & Witham vs. Central Maine at Community Park.

Rockland 6, Thomaston 1. Exhibiting power personified, the Pirates downed Thomaston 6-1 at Community Park Thursday night. A triple and five doubles together with McLellan's four-hit pitching turned back Thomaston, who just couldn't get started.

Thomaston's only run came in the second when Simpson singled to left, reached second on a sacrifice and tallied as Verge singled to center.

The Pirates forged back in the third when Ellis singled to right, Miller reached on an error, and Anderson singled, filling the bases. Barlow walked scoring Ellis, and Chisholm doubled to center to score Miller and Anderson for the second and third run.

One more was added in the fourth when McLellan doubled to right and scored on Miller's single.

In the seventh the Pirates served it up as Chisholm doubled over the fence, LaCrosse scored him with a double to deep left and Jones scored LaCrosse with another double to left to make the score 6-1.

Sunday the Pirates play host to Camden at 2:30 in a league game.

The surface of the field has been worked over and leveled several times this year by city crews and is now in the best condition ever for playing.

Twilight League

 the step leading to them. Bad for invalids and the aged.

"Hubbard's Lunch" is responsible for the new Thomaston scoreboard.

Midway of Tuesday night's game in Thomaston I saw Maurice Sawyer streaking it across the ball field. It doesn't seem so very long ago that he was starring in the Knox Twilight League, and I had the satisfaction of presenting him with a trophy as the most valuable all-around player in the circuit. But the Sawyer family still has two very capable representatives on the Thomaston team.

In the Pine State League at Bucksport last night the Easterns and Bucksport battled to a 4 to 4 tie, the game being stopped by darkness at the end of the 8th inning. The season's largest crowd saw the contest.

The Mainhaven Chiefs voyaged to the mainland last Sunday and put the scalping knife to the Shells 7 to 5. The Chiefs made 11 hits, Camden 10. Batteries, Carver and White; Richards and Hall. Gullford starred outfield and his three singles drove in five runs. Beware those island injuns!

The new scoreboard at Community Park was provided with the compliments of the North End Fish Market. The names and figures can be plainly seen all over the field.

I don't think anybody will dispute me when I say that Simpson, the Thomaston shortstop has the most powerful throwing arm of any player in the Twilight League.

When that boy Freddie LaCrosse hits em, they go. The fielders are justified in moving back when he approaches the plate.

Dick Marsh is back home and should prove a valuable addition to Manager Wink's list of moundmen.

The American farm hand, who for generations was The Forgotten Man in our national economy, is today receiving the highest wages in the history of agriculture. In 1939 the average hired man on the farms of the country received $35.82 per month. According to the Department of Agriculture, on April 1 this year the average wage of farm workers throughout the country was $107 a month, or about three times the pre-war period. The figure quoted does not include room and board. It is well to keep in mind the fact that averages are sometimes misleading. In the more prosperous agricultural sections of the country the hired men of the farms get much more than the national average. Some Iowa farmers are paying their men as much as $120 a month, together with a house, milk, eggs and 250 pounds of meat annually.

More Log Cabins

Manufacture of the Prefabricated Variety To Be Resumed In Camden

Prefabricated log cabins will again be manufactured in Camden starting about Aug. 11, it is announced this week by Gilbert Harmon, chairman of the Camden-Rockport Chamber of Commerce Industry Committee. Morgan C. Elmer, who has been assistant treasurer of the Camden Shipbuilding Company for the past one and a half years, following 31 months Navy service in the Pacific, heads the new company, "Enterprises of Maine, Inc." This will occupy two floors in the former Ordway Plaster factory, Tannery Lane, Harmon said.

These sectional log cabins which can be erected in a few hours are similar to but of sturdier construction than the Camden Cabins manufactured last year by the Camden Shipbuilding Company as one of their post-war projects until forced by Government restrictions on seasonal housing to suspend operations. Restrictions on this type of building have now been lifted, it is understood.

These attractive log cabins, in addition to use as Summer homes may also be insulated for year-round use, according to Mr. Elmer. Working with four-foot panels as basic units, the cabins can be erected in a great variety of sizes and designs. Furnished with the panels are all windows and hardware, bolts to fasten panels together, shingles, and complete details for assembling. Cost of a one-room 12x12 cabin is $665, and a 28x24' model with four rooms and bath would be $1,545.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer and two children moved from Tuckahoe, N. Y., to Camden in 1946. Elmer served as lieutenant on the battleship "Idaho" through Pacific campaigns from Attu, the Gilberts, Marshalls, Guam, Saipan, Iwo Jima, to Okinawa and Tokyo.

One of the youngest members of present Congress is William Jennings Bryan Dorn, farmer, of Greenwood, S. C. He is 31. Prior to his election to Congress, Mr. Dorn served in both branches of the Legislature in his State. He also served as an enlisted man in the Army Air Forces for more than three years.

Special this week, at 70c a pound, Emery's Fresh Frozen Broilers. Always available at the farm, South Thomaston. Tel. 167-24. Deliveries Saturday in Rockland area, adv. 61-1t.

Interesting indeed is the news from Alaska of the formation of another subordinate Grange unit in that faraway territory of the vast Northwest. This is Wasilla Grange, just organized in a new section of the faro's Matanuska Valley, where in 1935 the first Grange in Alaska was instituted, likewise in the Matanuska Valley, and made up largely of the colonists who had located there under the government project.

Londoners Hard Hit

Says Capt. Dunton Lately Returned From Voyage To England

Writing to his old pal Hiram Ingerson, Capt. B. W. Dunton says: "I am now on my way toward Newport, Va., from London where I took a load of sugar from Cuba. I was in London 15 days discharging it. Labor trouble caused delay. They have more strikes and labor trouble over there than we do in the States."

"After leaving Newport News, I went to Santos, Brazil, by Trinidad; then came back to Curacao for bunkers; then to Junas de Taza, Cuba. When we get to home port, we will likely load coal again for South America."

"People of London are very hard hit. It is hard to buy anything there; one has to have coupons or a ration card in order to get anything, and they don't get much at that."

"I would like to get to Rockland before the Summer is gone, but if I make another trip, I won't be able to do it. It takes about four months for one of these trips."

"Remember me to Walter Weeks, Freeman, Marshall and the rest of the boys."

SUNSET ON HORN'S HILL
I want to be alone, and so I climb Horn's Hill
Where everything is still
To watch the August sunset glow
The fishing village at my feet
Looks of little consequence
As Madena hums his dense
Sonne to take the day's last heat
He makes a green and purple haven
Shimmering with rose
Where a standing rowler goes,
Bent like a raven
To the pinions of his dory.
A copious tobacco stain
Spurs from this bird, upon the main,
Adding a new shade to the glory.
Have you seen a burning bay
Or a furnace on a cloud
Everywhere the world is loud
With a hundred hues in play.
Viewed from Horn's Height,
Looking northward to the highland
Searching southward from this island
On this fiery August night
While the sun disappears,
The colors, like the hopes of men
Drain from earth to sky, and then
Grow delicate with fears.
Light's last glowing bars
Make me aware
How men would disappear
If it were not for the stars.

APPLETON

Charles H. Conant

Services for Charles H. Conant, 58, who died July 14 at his home on the Ridge of heart disease, were held at the Baptist Church, with Rev. Orel Ward officiating. The bearers were Arthur Sprowl, Maynard Brown, Earl Sprowl and McKensie Williams. Interment was in Pine Grove cemetery, where committal services were held.

Mr. Conant, a resident here for the past seven years, was a veteran of World War I, serving in France as sergeant-truck driver, with the Quartermaster Corps, and in Germany with the occupation forces.

He received training from September to November, 1917, at Fort Strong, Boston Harbor, and was sent overseas in November, that year. He was honorably discharged in June, 1919, and on his return to this country, resumed employment as truck driver for the Charles E. Starrett lumber mill at Pleasantville where he was employed previous to his enlistment in the Army in June, 1917. Ill health compelled him seven years ago to give up this work for retirement, and to sell his new home in Pleasantville, and go to the home of his wife's parents, following their death.

When he first went to Warren, in 1912, he was employed by Samuel E. Norwood.

Mr. Conant was born in Camden. He was a member of Georges Valley Grange.

Surviving are his widow, Jennie (Whitney) Conant; one son, Charles; one daughter, Nettie; one brother, Clarence; and sister, Mrs. Aubrey Fuller.

RANDALL-RICH

Mary Perry Rich, daughter of Perry F. Rich and Dorothy M. Rich, and granddaughter of J. Frank Rich and the late Mary Perry Rich, residing on Old County road, Rockland was united in marriage to Dale Vern Randall of Detroit, Mich. July 24 at a candlelight service in the Strathmore Methodist Church in Detroit.

Two girl friends of Mary's, dressed in light blue crepe de chine and lace lit the candles lighting the way of the bride to the altar. Mrs. Harvey Baer played the Lohengrin wedding march while the bride and groom proceeded to the altar to be married with the beautiful double ring ceremony, performed by the groom's uncle, Clarence J. Haviland. The bride was given away by her father, Perry F. Rich of Rockland. The bride was attended in a beautiful white organdie dress with short train, trimmed with white satin ribbon and wore a fingertip veil which had a coronet of white or-gandie flowers.

The matron of honor, Onalee Green wore lavender organdie. The bride was also attended by two bridesmaids, Isabelle O'Dell and Jean Shumaker and by a sweet little flower girl, Jane Shumaker, carrying a basket of garden flowers. The groom was attended by the bride's brother, Richard Raymond Rich, and by the groom's brother, Allan Randall, and by an uncle of the groom, Ralph Haviland, all attired in conventional suits.

The bride carried a beautiful arm bouquet of white roses with center corsage. The attendants wore lavender, yellow and pink organdie and carried nosegays of matching roses and sweet peas.

The bride's mother wore a light blue silk mesh dress with a corsage of pink roses and a cambodia fern. The groom's mother wore a Summer print silk dress with a corsage of cream colored roses and cambodia fern.

The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of white daisies and glad olas and with bunches of sweet peas and baby's breath tied with white satin streamers to pews. Following the wedding service a reception was held in the basement of the church. Caterers served about 150 guests to a wedding supper. Mary and Dale cut the beautiful wedding cake at the end of the evening.

The bride and groom received many lovely gifts. After the ceremony they left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls. Mary wore a brown linen suit and white hat for her trip, with white accessories. Richard gave them a good sendoff with a lot of rice.

Harvey Baer sang three songs at the beginning of the service, "The Lord's Prayer," "Because" and "O Promise Me."

It may be as a surprise to many to learn that there are more than twice as many automobiles on the farms of the United States as there are telephones. According to the last census of agriculture, taken in 1945, there were 4,152,275 passenger cars on our farms, compared to 1,900,050 telephones. In addition to this, there were 1,490,320 trucks or more than 30 per cent of the national total, on farms.

Chicken feathers are being tested by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as a possible source for a new fibre.

"Open House Day"

Knox Hospital Scene Of Social Event and Practical Demonstration

A carefully prepared and well executed program met with the public's approval Wednesday afternoon when Knox Hospital opened its facilities for general inspection. Arranged by the officers, board of directors, campaign executive committee and Auxiliary, the "open house day" afforded citizens an excellent opportunity to become better acquainted with their county medical and surgical center, with recognition of the work accomplished therein.

An ideally selected program of musical semi-classics was enjoyed at the Bok Home for Nurses. Opening with a piano duet by Mrs. Fred Snow and Miss Dorothy Lawry, the numbers continued with:

Merry Widow Waltz Vocal
Dears Little Boy of Mine Vocal
Because You're You Vocal
Piano Duet, Mrs. Fred Snow, Miss Dorothy Lawry
I'll See You Again Vocal
Barbara Goldsmith Vocal
Kashmiri Song, Mrs. Snow, Miss Lawry

In the Still of the Night Vocal
A Brown Bird Singing Vocal
Ole Man River, Mrs. Snow, Miss Lawry
I'll Never Ask You To Tell Vocal
Piano Duet, Mrs. Snow, Miss Lawry

Accompanists were Miss Bertha McIntosh, Mrs. Faith Berry and Miss Lotte McLaughlin. A dainty repast was served, following which the company was invited to make a tour of the hospital, the nurses conducting the visitors through all departments and explaining the facilities available.

A furtherance of medical-surgical consciousness in the city augmented by a progress ve interest in their county institution should be the direct result of this inspection tour.

District 9 of the Maine Funeral Directors from this section of the State met in Camden, Friday night to hold a joint session with New England Institution Alumni. Mrs. Dorothy Laite serving as hostess.

The meeting was held in the delightful surroundings of Camden Yacht Club with 96 attending and they enjoyed a lobster dinner served by Mrs. Marion Hopkins. The evening entertainment continued with baritone selections by Mr. Laite. Carla Rummel, first harpist of the Germantown Pennsylvania Symphony Orchestra, was then introduced by Rev. William E. Berger, who paid tribute to the genius of Carlos Salzedo, her teacher. Miss Rummel entertained the group with "Short Stories in Music," composed for the harp by Mr. Salzedo.

The speaker Rev. William E. Berger was warmly received. At the conclusion of the evening James Staples presented Mrs. Laite with a bouquet of roses and thanked her in behalf of the Association for making the meeting a success.

Arthur Daniel Fish

Sudden Death of Deputy Sheriff and Former City Marshal—Funeral Today

The late Arthur D. Fish

Former City Marshal Arthur Daniel Fish, who had served nearly 20 years as a deputy sheriff, died suddenly at his home, 10 Stanley lane, late Tuesday night, from heart disease.

Funeral services will be held at the Littlefield Memorial Church at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Rev. Charles A. Marshall, former pastor officiating. Interment will be in Pine Grove cemetery, Appleton.

Mr. Fish was born in Liberty, June 12, 1874, son of Jefferson and Emma (Cunningham) Fish, a former millman who later engaged in farming. The family moved to Appleton when he was six years old, and he attended the schools of that town and Union following with a course at Rockland Commercial College. Thus fortified, he taught schools in Appleton and Union for a while.

He then came in possession of the homestead farm in Appleton, where he engaged in dairying. As a public official, he loomed prominently in Appleton affairs during his residence in that town. He served six years on the school board and six years as superintendent of schools, and was chairman of the board of selectmen for 10 years, or until he moved to Rockland in 1930.

Meantime he carried on the farm and built roads for the State. As a resident of Appleton he was a member of the Republican town committee and represented it on the County committee. As deputy sheriff he served under four administrations.

During the Bull Moose campaign, Mr. Fish remained "regular" and was the Republican nominee for Representative to Legislature. Franz U. Burkett, later attorney general, was the Progressive candidate and the late J. T. McCorkindale was the Democratic candidate. With this split in the ranks, the Democrats naturally won.

Mr. Fish had been a resident of Rockland since 1922 continuing here the busy activities which had marked his entire life. For several years he was employed in Dorman's shoe store at the Brook. In 1933 he was elected city marshal and upon his retirement from that office he was employed for a time as guard at the State Prison. He was a member of Burketville Grange and the Littlefield Memorial Church, and formerly belonged to the Rockland Lions Club.

Mr. Fish was widely known for many virtues, among them his trustworthiness, his loyalty to his friends, and his ever present geniality. His first wife was Lenora Lewis of Liberty. Surviving him are his second wife, the former Grace Dorman; a son, Arthur Lewis Fish of Rockland; and a brother, Everett Fish of Appleton.

George Ade Story

One of George Ade's greatest ambitions was to be a farmer. He took as much pride in his agricultural accomplishments as he did in his writing. One day Thursday his former neighbors came to him and began to brag about his wonderful crop of hay.

"I got quite a crop, too," said Ade. "You did?" said the farmer. "I didn't know you had cut your hay yet. How many tons did you get?" "I don't know exactly," said the humorist. "My men stacked up all their corn cobs and then they stored the rest in the barn."—Chicago Daily News.

Charles Dickens' last visit to America was in 1867-8. He arrived in Boston Tuesday, Nov. 19, 1867, and stayed at the Peck House. The first reading was Monday, Dec. 2, "The Christmas Carol," and "The Trial—Burdell vs. Pickwick." He read also on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday of that week; rested Wednesday and went to New York Saturday. See Foster's "Life of Dickens." Perhaps some of our readers can give further particulars, especially as to the reception.

Few realize that the osprey's food consists solely of fish, taken alive from near the surface of the water by the powerful, clawed feet of the bird. The outer toes are reversible like those of owls and a fish has small chance of escape once the talons of the osprey or fish hawk have closed down on it. Provision was made by Providence for every kind of living thing to get food if they used their heads.

Ephraim Hubbard, an old Maine countryman, was well over 80 but his comments had lost none of their keenness. Once when a battered car had broken down on the road running past his camp, Ephraim went out to investigate.

One of the three city youths fussing with the car looked at Ephraim's white beard and worn, faded overalls, then said condescendingly: "Well, Uncle, I suppose this is the first car you've ever seen?" "No," replied Ephraim, with a judicious look at the car in question, "it isn't the first car I've ever seen, but I've no doubt it's the first one that was ever made."

SERMONETTE

From that unforgettable experience at Blackington Corner with Rev. Isaac Case, two things were to flow—the awakening of Eliza Snow and the spread into all parts of the town of the work of grace.

It is a matter of note that in the sweep of a great revival of religion, two things seem requisite—the passion to save souls by some minister of God; and prayer. There also, is the hunger of the people after God.

Many references are made to the fact that the fields were white for the harvest. All of these conditions met in the ministry of Rev. Isaac Case. During the formative days in Knox County, these early settlers wanted God. Mr. Case obtained from the discussion of abstract theology and confined his preaching to a change of heart and of life.

Early in the summer of 1784, a church was organized in Oliver Robbins' barn. There were about 50 constituent members. Elder Case received and accepted the call to become its pastor. He labored with great zeal for eight years, and during these years the membership increased to 123, coming from Warren, Union, Camden, Waldoboro, Cushing, Friendship, Nobleboro, Newcastle, Jefferson and Vinal Haven.

See how these villages were springing up and how God was bestowing His love in their midst. Mr. Snow aware that his presence might well awaken old animosities and memories, that might embarrass Elder Case, retired to Hayswell and was ordained as an evangelist there in 1786.

For the first 80 years the church enjoyed as deacons, Samuel Brown, James Weed, John Bridges, John Ingraham, Richard Keating, Nathan Pillsbury, Nathaniel Emery, Eliza Snow, Jr., Richard Keating, Jr., Joshua Adams, Peter Hall, Samuel Dean, Thomas Hix and John Emery.

As I noticed once before, it is like calling the roll call of the saints and families in Knox County in my boyhood. They dreamed of better things.

FOUNDED 157 YEARS AGO

Showing Some Of the Fine Achievements Of the Coast Guard

Monday will mark the 157th anniversary of the founding of the United States Coast Guard, which started with a fleet of 10 sailing cutters, a mere 48 feet in length, back in 1790. The first cutter, the Scamwell, was commanded by Master Hopley Yeaton of New Hampshire whose assigned patrol area was from Kittery to Passamaquoddy, to combat the intensive smuggling activities of those days.

Known in those days as the "Revenue Marine" and later as the "Revenue Cutter Service" the men and ships of the organization which in 1915 became the United States Coast Guard, have always been agents of the Treasury Department. Charged with the preservation of life and property at sea, the service is primarily a police organization with its authority arising from the Treasury Department in its original intended duty, the prevention of violations of the customs laws at sea.

Down through the years, the Coast Guard has absorbed the Lifesaving Service and the Light-house Service, the two tasks for which it is best known to New Englanders. During the war, the Marine Inspection Service, also came under the Coast Guard wing and is still there.

Although its men and ships have served with distinction in all the wars since 1790 on combat duty, they have been merged with the Navy in each instance, their records of battle being a part of Navy records rather than of the Coast Guard itself. By act of Congress, on the day of declaration of war, the Coast Guard and Navy merge as one fighting force under the Secretary of the Navy and separate to go their own ways only upon order of Congress at the end of hostilities.

The war just past saw Coast Guard operations publicized properly and a separation at least in the public press, maintained between Navy and Coast Guard men and ships. For the first time in history, the public was informed of the combat exploits of the Coast Guardsmen, even though they were the stepchildren of the Navy. Wherever the Navy went, the world around, and the Army, too, Coast Guard ships, ranging from the regular cutters to huge transports and cargo ships were there. A beachhead in the Pacific cannot be named in which there was not Coast Guard personnel in the scrap; Europe the same way.

The war started early for the Coast Guard—started in September of 1941, months before Pearl Harbor, when Nazi radio stations were poured into the city; Casablanca, Salerno, Sicily, Anzio, Normandy and Southern France in Europe, along with the continued sub warfare and convoy duty in the North Atlantic. In the Pacific, the road started at Guadalcanal and Tulagi, in close company with the Navy, Marine Corps and Army.

Starting the war with less than 13,000 men, the service swelled to nearly 200,000. Today, it is back to about 18,000 and gradually settling into its peacetime pace of lifesavers and maritime police.

The years since V-J Day have been rough for the Coast Guard which has missed the skillful hand of Admiral Russell Waesche who brought it to its full wartime strength by his administrative ability and complete knowledge of the public and inter-service relations. With more men and ships than it now makes his home in Warren, the last act of the service in the war was at Okinawa where attack transports and cargo ships, along with landing craft of all types manned by Coast Guardsmen landed the invasion force. The first act of peace was the landing of McArthur's forces on the shores of Japan for the occupation.

to it a stableness for which it was known in prewar days.

The Coast Guard, with its surf stations and their lifeboats, the offshore rescue cutters, the lights and bases, are as much a part of Maine as the pines and the rugged coast. Before the 157th anniversary rolls around, may the fates, or an efficient administration, provide the necessary funds and men to properly man the stations, lights, bases and ships.

Told In Prose

But There's Poetry In It, and a Whole Lot Of Romance

[An address delivered at the reunion of Corinna Union Academy, but will apply almost anywhere.]

I must confess, it is a doubtful joy, to bring to mind those early days when I was but a boy and served my time at Corinna Union Academy—it was too long ago. White is the hair (just here and there if any) and wits are slow. But after all, I still recall those distant days. How distant? Look in your School Year Book; don't ask me any more.

Those were the days of Life's young dream, when the Past was dear, but dead. The Present was the time of trials: the halcyon days ahead. We scorned the old, sedate, and staid traditions of the Past. We thought the world could be geared up and get somewhere—but fast! We had our day, we dreamed our dreams, and just grew old, I guess. The world sped on; we got there fast—but have we made a mess!

But back when we were young (and wise?) and free from every care, our aim was, mostly, to enjoy the time while we were there. Those were the days of whalebone stays, when the dresses swept the floor, and the hat pin cut a murderous swath some two feet wide or more; when the maidens waist was tightly laced till the maidens gasped in fear that the loss of breath would cause quick death and the bustle brought up the rear. When glamour there was, as there is today, but we didn't give it a name; and the shapely maid lacked the sweater's aid—but she got there just the same.

Then the lusty lad was neatly clad in a collar of gleaming white, and each wee speck might be wiped away, and out of sight. The collar, you see, was of celluloid—rubber more often called. To keep it clean was an easy thing—just wipe; no rinse, no scald. The corners cut at the luscious neck and saved at the jugular vein, and the Adam's Apple took the rap again, and again, and again. 'Twas then, forsooth, that the yearning youth who desired to cut a dash, would seek with zeal for something real in the shape of a small moustache, if he wanted to kiss a winsome miss, and not be found at fault. For then, a kiss without a moustache, was like an egg without any salt.

In that yesteryear we had no fear that a snooping germ would slip across the space from face to face from the down of an upper lip. In those days when the snow came down we mostly let it lay, and jogged along on the beaten track with a horse and an open sleigh; when the reckless buggy raised the dust at seven miles an hour, or lurked in the shade of a lonesome grade, or a sympathetic bower and the old roan gave a cheerful groan and forgot about reins and whip for a little while, with a drowsy smile and a twitch of the nether lip. But the roan and the bay have had their day—they have gone where the button hooks are—and the young folks ride piled up inside a mortgaged motor car.

Now another generation comes to occupy the place which we then filled, with much (or little) grace. The old folks shake their heads as they take a look at the jazz-mad throng, and they sadly say "Tis a sorry day, and the world is going wrong."

In the olden time our own brass band made melody good to hear, and the gramophone, with its tinny tone, brought pickled music near. Now girls and boys, the horrendous noise that accompanies jump and jive; and the jitter bugs in the juke box joints, make us wonder if we're alive.

'Twas ever so, and will ever be, to the end of time, in truth, that the aging look with a twisted eye at the youthfulness of youth. Yes, the young will pet, and the old forget the thrills when they were young; the amorous moon, the seductive croon, the iniquitous old pun. 'Twas ever so, and will ever be—the days that are gone seem best. But the days that are, be they good or ill, are a bygone day's bequest. So let's be fair to the ravelling wolf, and the vamp with the dizzy flair. They're just the same—by another name we had 'em back there. And aside from the raucous change in style, and a new, but no better, slang, there is little change that I can see, since we were the graceless gang.

Troy's First School

Mrs. Cuddy Cites Fine Example of the Early Settlers' Spirit

New Haven, Conn., July 22. Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Reading "Not An Old Codger" in the July 1 issue of your paper, brings to mind a story that was told to me by one of the early settlers of Troy, Me.

He was a likeable old gentleman who made his living by farming and was a close neighbor of ours when we lived in that town over 30 years ago. The story centering as it did around the home we had purchased made it doubly interesting to me.

In the early history of that part of the town there was wild or government land that could be had by staking out what one considered ample for one's needs. Many homes were staked out in this manner. The farm on which we lived, and our neighbors', had been among them. These settlers cleared the land and built homes and being nicely settled there with their families, the land was cultivated and improved. Their major complaint was lack of schools.

With the old pioneer spirit it was decided to use a room in one of the houses for a school. The urgency for a school came to rest when it was agreed to use a room for that purpose in the original house on the farm which we later purchased.

The old gentleman being one of the pupils, said they would get the boys up bright and early every morning, clear the room of beds and other equipment, move in chairs and desks and when the school day was ended, the chairs and desk were removed to again make it into sleeping quarters for the night.

At the time of our buying the farm that old house had been moved and was used as an ice house and a new house had been built on the old site.

The story of that first school is a fine example of the industrious spirit of those settlers. The old house that served as home and school in the early days, is a far cry from the well equipped schools of today. Time has brought many changes.

Mrs. O. G. Cuddy.

Rockland Could

Emulate Patriotic Example Shown By The City Of Belfast

Persons attending the dedication of the new swimming pool at Belfast City Park last Sunday cannot help feeling that our city could do something equally as fitting as a tribute to our World War II dead.

Splendid speakers, including City Manager James O. Penner, who thanked all who helped to make the swimming pool possible, special praise given the President of the Auxiliary of Veterans of Foreign Wars Col. Lewis Greene, who spoke on Americanism, Maj. General Anthony J. McAuliffe, who said "nuts" to the Nazis at Bastogne and who cut the ribbons to the pool and Miss Frances Hamm, who dove through a paper hoop to officially open the pool.

Surely a spirit of co-operation exists elsewhere that we lack in our city. Let's not be beaten, back up the "Permanent Memorial Fund" for which appeals are being made. Send your contributions to Attorney Harry E. Wilbur, that we may in the near future dedicate a fitting tribute to our "Boys and Girls."

Well Wisher.

School Fund Swells

The success of the Central School Fair which was held Thursday at the Grange hall was due to the co-operation of the committees, according to Mrs. Joseph Emery, Jr., general chairman, and also the fact that the day was sparkling after weeks of foggy weather. Bubbles floating on the musical breeze, symbolized the spirit of the children who danced among the booths rich and varied in their appeal.

Supper was served to about 200 people, following which the Rockland City Band played before a throng of merry listeners. Sensing the worthiness of the cause for which the fair was run, the band donated their entire collection to the Central School fund. As darkness closed in, the hall was again filled by eager beano players. The beano committee thanks the merchants of Rockland for their generous donations. A card game was enjoyed upstairs, while those who wished to visit with old friends gathered in the kitchen in true country style.

It was a good day and a profitable one, too, as the Central School fund was swelled several hundred dollars.

Boosts Montpelier

Knox Memorial Gets Wide-spread Publicity Through "Esso Road News"

"On a commanding hilltop in Thomaston, Me., with all the dignity that befits its high station, stands magnificent 'Montpelier,' one of the show places of New England. The stately mansion is an exact copy of the home built in 1793 by General Henry Knox, prominent Revolutionary soldier who became Washington's Secretary of War. Its majestic proportions and Colonial splendor recall that the general, once one of the Colony's wealthiest men, had plenty of taste as well as money."

The above paragraph appears in the current issue of Esso Road News, monthly travel paper.

Esso Road News goes on to say: "Most striking features of the mansion's lower floor are the unique double-hanging staircase and the oval drawing room with its sumptuous furnishings. Here, as elsewhere throughout the house, many of the pieces are the originals."

"In one corner stands the first piano brought to Maine; near by is a huge mirrored bookcase that was Marie Antoinette's. On the wall hangs Gilbert Stuart's portrait of the general's son-in-law, painted on a single piece of mahogany."

"High lights of the second floor is the spacious Gold Room, the state bedroom where slept Lafayette, Louis Philippe and many figures notable in early American history whom Knox entertained. Here is the bed they slept in; the gilded wallpaper was copied from that in the original house."

"Chinese Chippendale furniture dominates the master bedroom. Its drapes, exquisitely figured, were printed from hand-engraved copper plates. The wallpaper of the lovely Harvest Room reproduces the sheaves and pumpkins that adorned the original chamber."

"Spartan" flooring in many of the rooms recalls a forgotten Colonial practice of touching-up the oaken boards with hundreds of tiny points of color, giving a smooth tiled effect. The curved walls of the North and South Powder Rooms across the front continue the style of the drawing room below."

"Among the more intimate possessions of the Knox family displayed throughout the house is a clumsy wooden bathtub, presumably used by the general every Saturday night. Most fascinating is a traveling case given to him by Lafayette."

Now On His Own

Charles Emery, Talented Rockland Boy, Has Studio In New York

Writing from his present home at 44 West 53d street, New York City, Charles Emery tells of his experiences in the dramatic world. From a personal letter to the editor the following is quoted:

"I have opened my own dramatic studio here in New York this month and hence on will direct all of my own plays. Formerly linked up with the Granger Talent Studios, which used my plays previously, I have now branched out on my own."

"We have five performances lined up for next month, including one in Paterson, N. J., a army camp, a library auditorium and High School auditorium in Washington Heights, and Ceramicerium, Manhattan."

"Fascination" my latest written one-act vehicle had its initial performance May 12, at the Merchant Seaman's Institute auditorium here in Manhattan. It's a play with a tragic ending but they loved it. It took seven curtain calls, which is not bad going. It will be published this fall."

"And now at work on a new one-act play entitled 'The Glorified Brat' for Samuel French. My contract calls for two more plays for them before the end of 47."

"It has taken me 12 years to break the ice. I started writing when I was a child. Now if I can just keep on going and not fall through the ice, everything should be fine."

"I miss those whiffs of salt air from the Atlantic Ocean a few yards from my home on the hill. But we can't have everything."

Awarded Loving Cup

Lincolnton V.F.W. Post Is Winner Of The Spaulding Trophy

The Spaulding Trophy, a silver loving-cup presented by Department Commander C. A. Spaulding to the Maine VFW post first achieving 100% payment of 1947 dues, has been awarded to Connors-Thurlow-Ripley Post, No. 8111, of Lincolnton.

Leslie P. LeBlanc, one of the delegates to the recent department encampment at Waterville, accepted the trophy for the Lincolnton post at that time, and at the VFW meeting this week he presented it to Post Commander Arthur G. Bryant.

At the same session the local overseas veterans unanimously went on record in favor of pending legislation which would permit immediate cashing of terminal leave bonds, and the newly-appointed Post Adjutant, Frank Leonard, was instructed to communicate that vote to the two Senators from Maine.

Connors-Thurlow-Ripley Post also voted to omit further meetings through the Summer, recessing until Sept. 8.

From The Italian

Play By Camden Hills Theatre Group Translated By Bangor Woman

Miss Josephine Profita, of Bangor, is the first lady of the Camden Hills Theatre recently but had no part in any play, and is not even a member of the Summer theatre group. She is, however, solely responsible for the fact that "The Servant of Two Masters" was presented at the Camden Hills Theatre.

Miss Profita, who is active in Bangor theatre groups, has translated "The Servant of Two Masters" from the Italian, giving it a free translation and taking advantage of all the comical situations to make it a rollicking play. To translate an entire play from the Italian was no easy job, even for this young lady of Italian heritage who speaks the language fluently. It took many days and nights of hard work before the translation was completed and then it was necessary to go over it many times, clearing up spots and making the entire play smooth.

A graduate of University of Maine, where she majored in theatre, Miss Profita has been director of drama at one of the Bangor business schools and then at John Banst High School. It was at John Banst that she instructed Joan Cassidy, a member of the Camden Hills Theatre who had the chief supporting role in "The Servant of Two Masters," playing the part of Beatrice, around whom the play revolves.

Revisits Thomaston

Benj. F. Copeland, One Time Prison Engineer, Looks Up Acquaintances

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Copeland of Cambridge, Mass., are returning home today after a visit with Mr. Copeland's cousin, Mrs. Ida Copeland, at Holiday Beach. Arriving from Massachusetts, they were guests for a short time at the Webber's Inn, improving the opportunity to look up old friends, who have become all too few with the passage of many years.

Mr. Copeland was born in Thomaston in 1885, and was married in 1895 to Aggie Hunter of Thomaston. After moving to Cambridge, they became engaged in the undertaking business from which Mr. Copeland was compelled to retire in 1943 because of arthritis in his hands.

A caller at The Courier-Gazette office Friday, Mr. Copeland recalled his youthful days at Thomaston when he and his brother Fred were employed as engineers at the Maine State Prison. Working seven days a week, 12 hours a day, they received the princely wages of $30 a month.

Mr. Copeland displayed with considerable pride a 50-year Masonic medal which was presented to him by Orient Lodge of Thomaston. He was raised May 15, 1894, and has always retained his membership in the Thomaston lodge.

Swett Was Amazed

At Size of Whitmoyer Plant—Those In Crew, and Checks, Look Healthy

July 19.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

Having read the article in your issue of July 8 regarding the Whitmoyer waterfront stretch, I was curious, so accepted an invitation to visit their plant. Was amazed and gratified to see such an investment in machinery on the old Thorndike & Hix site; also a place of steady employment for three shifts of men by a reliable company, with a real sincere purpose in serving mankind and agriculture, with their products. Those in the crew all looked healthy and so do the pay checks, which is a pleasure to cash every week.

As I stood there watching the presses and grinders rolling over, I couldn't help harking back to the early 1920s while employed at the Samoset Hotel where many of our summer visitors were guests. No doubt they may still remember a much worse fish smell.

The Whitmoyer firm may never have a Pelican day, but given a chance to get straightened out, I honestly believe Rockland may be on the right road to more fully utilize what everyone knows to be the best seaport on the Atlantic coast.

Long Cove Man Carves Bird Groups

This three-foot grouping of male and female Mallards, carved from blocks of wood by Malmstrom, was recently delivered to a Pennsylvania hunting lodge. —(Photos by Cullen)

Built on the lines of Paul Bunyan, Carl Malmstrom of the little village of Long Cove stands well over six feet, tips the scales at over 200 pounds and has a pair of hands that could crush a lobster pot buoy. Formerly a hard-working paving cutter, Carl is today a recognized craftsman in a far more delicate trade—bird carving and painting. Those big, almost awkward hands, contain a skill which has brought him national prominence for his beautifully carved native sea birds of the Maine coast.

The carvings, while things of beauty before they are colored, take on a breathless likeness to real life when Carl paints them in the natural markings. Years of observation and study of birds along the coast have given him a detailed knowledge of Maine birds. He knows their habits and their movements and positions in flight on the water or ground.

His studio, which he defends from Mrs. Malmstrom's attempt to rearrange, adjoins the family living room in their snug house at Long Cove. Littered with partly finished birds and unique bird sets and mountings, which will someday adorn a study of a distant hunting lodge, the space seems more like a bird sanctuary than a workshop.

Bird feathers, wings and stuffed bodies which are used for guides in coloring, adorn the walls while a pair of live pet Mallards, model for many carvings, live in luxury in a special pen only a few feet distant.

Young and old, rich and poor, together with a sprinkling of the nation's famous artists vacationing in Maine, have trooped through the little shop and stayed to admire Malmstrom's work. Many have carried away treasured purchases which have led to mail orders from all over the country when others have seen their friends' prize carvings.

Malmstrom came to this country from Lystinn, Sweden in 1914 and learned the trade of paving cutter at Long Cove. He spent his days shaping 20 pound paving blocks from rough granite. When his work at the paving cutter's was done, he would go home to his hobby of carving sea birds. Gradually the hobby outgrew the trade, and for the past five years the wood carving has occupied all his time.

During the years, Malmstrom neglected his carving temporarily and worked as a master craftsman at the Bath Iron Works. Once the war was over, he returned to carving full time.

Not satisfied with merely carving a bird and selling it mounted on the polished wood mounting block, Carl scours the shores for miles to obtain properly aged driftwood to give his birds an authentic mounting. A stack of such pieces of driftwood near his home is probably the most valuable woodpile for miles around—Sid Cullen in the Maine Coast Fisherman.

Coast Guard Plans

As Officially Outlined For Maine In The Fiscal Year of 1948

In response to a specific request made by Representative Margaret Chase Smith, A. C. Richmond, commandant of the Coast Guard in Washington has announced the shore facilities for operation in Maine during the fiscal year of 1948. These call for 11 commissioned officers, 8 warrant officers and 303 enlisted men (ashore) and 10 commissioned officers, 11 warrant officers and 189 enlisted men, afloat. A total personnel of 21, 19 and 492, respectively.

The list of shore activities follows:

Depot — South Portland and Southwest Harbor

Fog Signal Station—Manana Island

Lifeboat Station—Quoddy Head, Cross Island, Moose Peak, Southwest Harbor-Facility, Whitehead, Burnt Island, Damariscove Island, Kennebec River, Cape Elizabeth, Fletchers Neck, Portsmouth Harbor, Isles of Shoals.

Light Stations—Whitlocks Mill, St. Croix River, West Quoddy Head, Little River, Libbys Island, Great Manan, Egg Rock, Baker Island (Facility Southwest Harbor), Great Duck Island, Bear Island, Bass Harbor Head, Burnt Coat Harbor, Mt. Desert, Saddleback Ledge.

Marine Inspection—Portland, Telephone System Office—Machias and South Portland.

The following vessels and crafts are assigned for operation at ports in Maine during fiscal year 1948:

CGC Kaw, 110 foot, icebreaking tug, Portland.

CGC Snohomish, icebreaking tug, Rockland.

CGC Cowslip 180 foot icebreaking tender, Portland.

CGC Laurel, icebreaking tender, Rockland.

CGC Serrell icebreaking tender, general duty, Rockland.

CG-30004 80 foot, general utility and patrol boat.

CG-34301, small icebreaker. A and B tug, Southwest Harbor.

Lightship, No. 90, Portland.

The supplemental estimate for the Coast Guard for 1948 now under consideration by the House Appropriations Committee contains a request for funds for three purposes, (1) to augment the number of ocean weather stations that can be operated under the funds already appropriated by Congress, (2) to provide for the operation and maintenance of the existing loran system for 1948 and (3) to establish a limited number of positions for civilian examiners under the provisions of the Administrative Procedures Act.

None of these purposes require facilities which would be based or located in the State of Maine, and therefore the list of facilities given above would not be directly augmented as a result of any favorable action on the supplemental appropriation. Favorable action will, however, increase the operating efficiency of the Coast Guard and to some extent reduce the burden placed on facilities and personnel available for statutory and traditional duties of the Coast Guard. To this extent there is an indirect advantage to the State of Maine in the passage of the supplemental appropriation of $19,150,000 requested.

Red Cross Matters

Allen Payson Is Again Chairman—Arthur Calvin's Timely Talk

Allen Payson was re-elected chairman of the Knox County Chapter of the American Red Cross and the officials heard a timely talk from Arthur Calvin, new Maine-New Hampshire-Vermont regional director at the annual meeting Thursday night.

Calvin called upon Red Cross members to tell the people of their communities that in these insecure times one of the ways to aid the cause of peace was through the giving of personal service—and that one of the best ways to perform this was by aiding the American Red Cross in continuing projects using the experiences gained throughout the war.

At the Red Cross Convention the delegates reaffirmed their interest in a program of service to veterans and their families and the basic structure of the Red Cross was changed to include a board of Governors to make new policy; the Convention's third great declaration being that of a new national blood donors program.

In this third program, Calvin said have two parts: Recruitment of local chapter and branches would donors and the supervision of distribution of the blood in the area under chapter jurisdiction.

"In every community," he said, "there are special needs such as water safety, nutrition, home nursing and other programs that must be carried out and it is a shame to let the experiences we gained in war be lost now that the war is over. We can use these experiences to alleviate the sufferings in peace time as well as the sufferings of war time."

The setting up of more efficient disaster units in every chapter must be concentrated upon, he said, that it might be ready to care for people made homeless or hurt.

Mrs. Susie Lamb was given a rising vote of thanks and her resignation as production chairman unanimously vetoed by the executive board. She will continue in office.

Mrs. Hattie Davies, 84, who has been hard at work at the sewing room ever since its inception was given a real ovation for the wonderful work she has done.

On the executive board were also Edward R. Ladd, vice president; Ardrey Orff, treasurer; Edward T. Dorman, Thomaston; Mrs. Myrtle Sherman, Camden; Rev. Father William E. Berger, Camden; Herbert C. Newbegin, Rockland; Frederic H. Bird, Rockland; Allan J. Murray, Rockland; Mrs. Charles H. Stenzer, Friendship; Mrs. Richard O. Elliot, Thomaston; Robert C. Gregory, Rockland.

Commander Isaac L. Hammond (USCG Ret.) was renamed executive secretary and the resignation of Mrs. Betty Foxwell of Camden due to press of business matters accepted; with James A. Moore of Rockland named to replace her.

A Bird in the Hand

Although his young son seems a little perplexed, Harry J. What Baptists Want

Powerful Resolutions Were Adopted At Atlantic City Convention

Baptists in the Northern Baptist Convention represent more than a million and one-half people. At their annual convention in May at Atlantic City resolutions were offered of such vital importance to our country's welfare, and that of the world in general they should be given the widest currency.

They urged legislation vouchsafing to the worker the right to be employed and paid solely on the basis of his character and ability irrespective of race, creed or national origin.

They opposed compulsory military training in peace time as contrary to both the American ideal of religion and civil liberties. They affirmed that compulsory military establishments in time of peace have not forestalled war. They opposed compulsory military conscription in peace-time as detrimental to the morals of youth.

They took exception to the recent Supreme Court five to four ruling that gives the F.B.I. the right of search without a search warrant as a direct violation of Article 4 of the Bill of Rights. They supported the dissenting opinion of the Court that warns "a future government could use the majority ruling to put down political opposition." Moreover that there could be no freedom of thought, or speech or religion while men are open to searches like that approved by the Court, and that the majority's decision would be taken by the police as authority to search any home, if they could get a warrant for anybody who lived there. They expressed concern over the present trend toward the violation of our traditional civil liberties.

They favored federal legislation to promote higher educational levels in depressed areas of the nation, such aid not interfering with State controls, and that aid shall be limited to non-sectarian public schools.

Because power alliances of nations have failed in the past, and because of the suspicion and ill-will aroused by military missions financial or otherwise, they protested the present policy of the State Department whereby military plans and programs of an imperialistic nature are evolved for the purpose of protecting private foreign investments.

They endorsed legislation favorable to the entrance into the country of displaced persons.

In view of the international crisis over relations with Russia they deplored the atmosphere of hate, fear, and suspicion existing there resolved that we make every effort to restore a spirit of friendly co-operation between Russia and the rest of the world by interpreting all international negotiations upon a Christian basis of brotherhood and the desire for world peace. They also resolved that our churches make special effort to create a better understanding of Russia through an exchange of correspondence, discussion groups, conferences, lectures, literatures and study courses, and that they co-operate actively with the Inter-Church Committee of the American Russian Institute in a constructive program of building more friendly relationships with Russia.

These resolutions are in keeping with the record and traditions of Baptists down through the centuries.

Camp Tanglewood

Happy Girls Are Busy Presenting Plays, Among Other Activities

Plays, shows and a mid-season banquet were on the menu for campers at Camp Tanglewood, Y.W.C.A. camp at Lincolnville, this past period.

The dining hall might be appropriately renamed the Tanglewood Play House. The show was opened by the Fidgets who put on their program by cabins—each cabin making up the cast. Cabin I sang "Zip-A-Dee-Do-Dah" in chorus.

Singers were Paige Naugle, Faye Orcutt, Betty Bridges, Charlotte Hunt, Ina Peabody, and Deana Mills. Cabin II did "Little Bo-Peep." The narrator was Wendy Sherman. Little Bo-Peep was sweetly portrayed by Marcia Mansfield. The Sheep, Betty Brackett, Sally Robinson, and Helen McKenney, went across the stage "wagging their tails behind them."

Cabin III presented Little Miss Muffet with the title role played by Burr Ann Pope; Spider, Deborah Carr; narrators, Faith Fuller and Anna Howard. Judy Starr did a tap dance. Cabin IV was an all-star show with Sharon Polson, Carol Ann Flynn, Jane Wilson, Sandra Page, and Donna Merott reciting Little Jack Horner in unison.

The upper Seniors charmed the group into laughter and gaiety with "The Wedding Present." This was about a husband who didn't want the wedding gifts tagged, but who wrote them down in a list (Carole Cuche), his wife (Joanne Owen) who lost the list; and an unexpected guest who didn't know what had been sent with his name attached (Nancy Sharpe). Joan Rokel was the efficient stage manager and Betty Hempstead receives credit as the director.

The Middles' play was entitled "The Emperor's Test." The following cast was interesting: Emperor, Sally Patterson; Pierre, Nancy Prange; General, Nancy Peabody; Captain, Rhonda Lait; 1st Aide, Judy Parsons; 2d Aide, Barbara Littlefield; Mayor's wife, Faye Kleeberg; Mayor's son, Gayle Mahaney; rich merchant's wife, Joy Thompson; rich merchant's son, Carolyn Sawyer; poor woodcutter's wife, Carolyn Weymouth; Ludwig, Suzanne Wilke. Costumes and properties, Faith Murphy, Ruth Sandman and Cynthia Stuart.

The plot of the play was the sale of a king who sought a new scout for his army. Many men were tested but only one, Pierre, was alert and conscientious enough to meet the qualifications.

For Camp Tanglewood's annual mid-season banquet the dining hall was turned into a nursery with dolls, teddy bears, and top decorations. The children had to come dressed as a nursery character so there was a variety of costumes. The McNeils—Barbara and Bertha—wore long flannel nightgowns with matching caps. Some of the girls made a sarong-like costume from their bed sheets, while towel and pillow slip diapers were very popular with campers and counselors alike. Several people had their pajama pants rolled up with the top tucked in to resemble rompers. There were bibs of every shade, size and shape also pig tails, and nursing bottles. Many "babies" brought their rattles or toys to amuse themselves during the lull between courses. An interesting program was enjoyed by all—no one proved too young.

Jean Rich and Mary Louise Cutler harmonized on "Peg O' My Heart," followed by Carolyn Graves who soloed on "Misty Dots." A contest was staged between several of the counselors where each one said the alphabet as different individuals might interpret it. "Kim" Kimball won the prize with her

Production of High Grade Milk Not Job

For Cows Alone; Farmer's Help Required

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Although the cow generally is thought of as being in sole charge of the milk "manufacturing" process, the farmer bears a large share of the responsibility for the quality of milk she produces. In addition, he is entirely responsible for preserving that quality until the product has been sold.

To help cows produce top grade milk, it is necessary that they be provided with good pasture, satisfactory supplementary feed rations and plenty of fresh water. At milking time, farmers also must use clean, sterilized utensils, follow good dairy management practices and accepted rules of sanitation. For, assuming that Bessie had been trained satisfactorily, her job is ended from the moment she walks into the stanchion to be milked.

The preservation of the original goodness of milk requires that it be rendered as how a sneaky society

deb might say the alphabet. Viola Starr gave one of her much-appreciated monologues entitled "Millie's

My Name." To top the evening's performance, little Gail Jones, Belfast, did a superb acrobatic dance that brought the house down.

But Mrs. Roberts' teaching profession was destined to be of a very short duration. After two brief years of teaching the three R's to the youngsters of Salem and Pelham, our friend was struck by one Dan Cupid's arrows and she was married to Timothy L. Roberts, of Vinalhaven. He was also a school teacher. They were married in the Pelham Baptist Church, Oct. 19, 1872, by Rev. Mr. Woodman.

The young couple lived in Vinalhaven but soon destiny was to ordain their moving to Boston. But not before Mrs. Roberts had fallen in love with this beautiful Maine island known as Vinalhaven. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts went to Boston because he desired to pursue a course at the famous New England Conservatory of Music. They lived in a small apartment for the next three years as Mr. Roberts went to school once again. Mrs. Roberts "kept house" in a large strange city on the theory that a "wife belongs with her husband and not away from him."

Mr. Roberts secured his diploma. His first job as a supervisor of music was in the public schools of Newton and they resided in one of the suburbs, Newtonville. Promotion came fast and he went to the New Paltz State Normal school in upper New York State, 90 miles west of Albany. Here he remained for four years before moving up again to accept charge of the music system in the public schools of Utica, N. Y. For 23 long and happy years, Mr. Roberts rendered outstanding service to the youth of that large city. In addition to his school duties, he also gave private lessons to a large clientele.

Following his retirement, the couple made their home in Wollaston. But each Summer they set out for their beautiful Summer home at Vinalhaven. It was ironic that death should come to Mr. Roberts in 1885, while enjoying the tranquility of this famous Maine seacoast town.

Following the death of her husband, Mrs. Roberts came to Merrimac to live with her sister, Mrs. Calvin Cochran. But during each Summer, after visits to nieces and nephews in Wollaston and Trenton, N. J., our friend sets the compass in the direction of Vinalhaven. Although the "old homestead" was sold following Mr. Roberts' death, she has a large number of friends there, and their doors are always open to her.

We asked her what it was in Vinalhaven that captured her fancy. "There is just something about it," was Mrs. Roberts' reply. She stated that there are famous stone quarries located on the island. Never having been to Vinalhaven, we asked Mrs. Roberts how it was reached from Rockland.

"Well, if you go by steamboat it takes one and a half hours but I always fly over in an airplane in just seven minutes," Mrs. Roberts answered.

Mrs. Roberts frequently goes to Boston on the train and "goes shopping," all by her lonesome. Truthfully, she doesn't look a day older than 70 years. She has the full possession of her faculties.

One of her principal hobbies is making beautiful hooked rugs. And we do mean beautiful. All made by hand, and Mrs. Roberts does her own copying. No designs for her. No sir. She also makes her own dresses and quilts and many other articles.

Mrs. Roberts takes a keen interest in current events and is justly proud of the fact that she has voted at every election held in Merrimac during her 12 years of residence here.

Mrs. Roberts was the winner of the orchid at the recent "Breakfast in Hollywood" program in Town Hall here for being the oldest lady present. She received hundreds of letters and cards on her recent birthday. And she plans to answer each greeting in her own handwriting, which is as clear as that of a woman 25 years younger.

June 4, some 25 members of the Rose Standish guild of the Pilgrim Congregational Church staged a surprise post-birthday party for Mrs. Roberts. A huge birthday cake was on the table. She received a beautiful bouquet of flowers. And everybody sang "Happy Birthday" to the guest of honor.

In taking our leave, we asked Mrs. Roberts for her recipe for longevity. She quickly replied: "Keep busy and live right."

Secret Of Old Age

"Keep Busy and Live Right" Says Mrs. Fannie Roberts. Now At Vinalhaven

Mrs. Fannie E. Roberts, age 93, widow of Timothy L. Roberts of Merrimac, Mass., arrived in Vinalhaven Thursday for a month's visit with Mrs. Lillian Libby. Mrs. Roberts has many friends in Vinalhaven where she spent so many happy Summers.

The following article which appeared in the Haverhill (Mass.) Sunday Record will be read with much interest by the island residents:

Mrs. Roberts was born in Salem, N. H., May 29, 1854, daughter of the late Samuel Kelley and Ann Mira Woodbury. Her father was a farmer and a stone contractor.

When she was but 17, Mrs. Roberts became a school teacher in Salem. She was one of the young "school marm's" in the State of country. She taught in the very school that her father studied in his youth. Mrs. Roberts laughed heartily when we asked her if she didn't attend a State Teachers' school or a Normal school before assuming her teaching role. "Goodness, gracious no they didn't have any in my day," was her quick reply. She secured her second teaching job in Pelham without even taking an examination.

But Mrs. Roberts' teaching profession was destined to be of a very short duration. After two brief years of teaching the three R's to the youngsters of Salem and Pelham, our friend was struck by one Dan Cupid's arrows and she was married to Timothy L. Roberts, of Vinalhaven. Prison Baseball

M. S. P. 3, Bath Elks 2

Registering their most defensive game of the season the Elks, lined handed out a neat three to two victory over the Bath Elks. Tallying their only three runs in the third, all unearned coupled with a free pass and three preceding hits. In the fifth a hit batsman, a single and a fielder's choice loaded the sacks for the Elks with none out. Then Benntt bore down with Boardman at the plate and got him to fly to left field and a fine throw out down Footer at home after he reached third on Kenny's fumble. A single scored a run and a strikeout quelled the uprising.

Then in the ninth again the Elks made a bid to get back in the ball game, but the prison line closed the door by having Bean force Fortier at third, a single scoring Boardman from second and Brown ended the bitter contest game by forcing out Sarkis.

RECALLS OLD RAILROAD DAYS

When First Train Ran Over Knox & Lincoln Branch—Well Remembered Old Timers

Immediately after the Civil War the country became railroad conscious and the great lines were pressed westward over the prairies to the Pacific coast. Railroads were operating in the eastern part of the country but outlying districts began to think of branch lines. In Maine the railroad ran from Portland to Bangor over what was known as the "Main Line." A short branch ran from Brunswick to Bath, where it was stopped by the wide Kennebec River. All the area along the coast was in great need of improved transportation and considerable interest was aroused concerning a plan to build a railroad from Bath to Rockland.

When this proposal was presented to the various towns and groups of financial men, banks and investors, it met with wide-spread approval and the Knox & Lincoln Railroad became a reality. Work was started in 1867 with numerous construction gangs all along the line. All the towns bought many of these railroad bonds with Newcastle and Damariscotta responding generously. A dock was constructed in Bath, another in "Hercules" and the great car ferry "Hercules" was begun in Bath. By 1871 the whole construction was nearly completed.

July 17, 1871, the first train was run over the line from Bath to Rockland. The conductor was Thomas H. Ingraham, who was born at Ingraham's Corner, Camden, May 25, 1844. There are many who still remember "Tom" Ingraham for his congenial disposition and wide-spread popularity with the traveling public and officials of the road. When "Tom" was only 21 he joined the Union forces in that famous 2d Maine Battery commanded by Captain, later Gen. Hall. He served with distinction all through the war. When he went "railroading" after the war he proved to be a most efficient employee and soon attracted the attention of the officials by his ability and was speedily promoted to conductor. He was the unanimous choice for conductor of the new railroad and served as such for 20 years until his death at his home in Rockland in 1891, being only 47 years old when he died.

It is quite certain that the engineer of the first train was the popular Ben Whitehouse, a brother of the lamented Stephen Whitehouse who was captain of that immortal Co. "H" of the 4th Maine, which was sacrificed on the altar of military necessity in the early stages of the battle of Gettysburg. Ben Whitehouse enjoyed an equal popularity with "Tom" Ingraham and served as engineer for many years.

The old "stage," sometimes called "hacks" were on the order of the old stage coaches of the Western prairies. They were elaborately upholstered inside and ornamented with bright buttons and tassels. They were suspended on a great crescent-like spring which gave a sort of "rocking" motion. This greatly relieved the shock of riding over the rough roads but they were far less comfortable than modern vehicles.

The first trains would be a curiosity in this advanced day of transportation and railroading. The engines were operated by steam made from wood fires. There were locations all along the line where wood was piled in cord-wood lengths and purchased by the rail-

Veterans' Corner

By George L. Beach, Jr., Officer-in-Charge, Veterans' Administration Contact Office, Community Building, Rockland, Maine.

George L. Beach, Jr., Contact Representative at the Veterans Administration Contact Office, Community Building, Rockland, today urged that veterans in training on-the-job be prompt in returning to VA reports of compensation from productive labor. He stressed that the report forms which are received by all trainees quarterly around the 20th of the month should be completed and returned to VA center at Togus not later than the fifth of the following month.

"If the VA does not receive the report on prescribed Form 7-1963, and on time, it is forced to suspend the subsistence allowance of the trainee until such time as the form is received. This embarrasses the veteran," Mr. Beach stated.

Veterans are urged to complete Section A of Form 7-1963 and have the employer complete Section B of the form, so that the VA will receive it by the fifth of the following month. In this way receipt of subsistence allowance checks will not be interrupted.

Veterans attending institutions of learning receive their Forms 7-1963 once each school semester and veterans in institutions of learning should likewise return their Forms without delay in order to avoid overpayments or interruption of subsistence allowances payments to them.

Improving The Soil

Important Work Is Being Done In Knox and Lincoln Counties

Harold Watts of St. George, has done considerable pasture clearing with his bulldozer. Harold says the best way is to cut trees that are large enough for fire wood. Harold also used his bulldozer to construct a farm pond. Previous to the construction his well went dry during the droughts but after construction his well never goes dry even though he uses much more water. Two definite veins have been traced to the well. Now he plans to do one more thing, that is, stock the pond with fish. This same pond saved his house from burning in 1940 when the barn burned.

Ernest Smith of Jefferson, at whose farm a demonstration of ditch blasting was put on last Fall by the Soil Conservation Service and Extension Service, plans to blast about 1000 more feet this Fall. The ditch has functioned very good and excellent cooperation was received from the highway crew in lowering the culvert.

George Burckett of Newcastle has done an excellent job of contour strip cropping without any assistance from anyone. George took the idea from a farm magazine. Al Faust, Soil Scientist, was in the area a short time ago mapping soils. Soil maps have been made for the farms of Stanley Waltz, Waldoboro; Stanton Hannah Waldoboro; Orla Johnston and Donald Johnston, both of Jefferson. Between 50 and 60 more farms are on the list to be mapped as soon as possible.

as a boy, became so interested in railroading and many recall the excellent drawings he made of modern railroad engines. "Willy" went on to be an engineer on the main lines of the Maine Central Railroad and one of the very best.

Much could be written of the romantic history of the early days of the road and to include the early station masters, Edwin F. Metcalf and E. W. Nash.—Harold W. Castner in the Lincoln County News.
